

It's time for your very own poetry contest, except everyone is a winner here! Take some time and write a poem in any style and on any topic you like. You can write about your pet, your favorite sport, or even this book! Then muster up your courage—like Rica—and share your poem with the rest of the group. Encourage one another and tell everyone what you liked about their poem.

